

PVKKIT Celebrates International English Language Day with Enthusiasm

On 23rd March, PVKK Institute of Technology celebrated International English Language Day, organized jointly by the Student Activity Cell and the Department of Humanities & Sciences. The event aimed to commemorate William Shakespeare, his contribution, the importance of English language and to emphasize its growing relevance in the 21st-century global landscape.

Ms. Aparna, Director of Overseas Education Pvt. Ltd., graced the event as the Chief Guest, while Dr. Bandi Ramesh Babu, Principal of PVKKIT, presided over the function. Other dignitaries in attendance included Dr. Lakshmi Narasappa and Dr. Kiran Rao, Heads of the Humanities and Sciences Department.

As a part of the celebrations, competitions such as Essay Writing, Elocution, and an English Language Quiz were conducted on 15th and 16th April. The events were coordinated and supervised by the CRT team viz., Mr. Manoj Sirivaram, along with the English faculty viz., A. Pavani, Associate Professor of English, K. Naresh Assistant Professor and Mr. Ashfaq the English faculty. Mr. Anand Dampella, Assistant Training and Placement Officer, and Ms. Waheeda Parveen, Chief Training and Placement Officer, led the initiative from planning to execution, including organizing the award ceremony.

The top three winners in Elocution and Quiz, along with the top two winners in PPT Presentations, were honored with certificates, awards, and mementos presented by Ms. Aparna and Principal of the institution, Dr. Bandi Ramesh Babu. All first-year students attended the function as audience members.

The event concluded with thought-provoking speeches from the dignitaries, emphasizing the indispensable role of English in today's academic and professional spheres. The celebration was well received, reflecting the importance of English in the minds of the participants and audience alike.